FEB 1952 51-4AA 25X1 CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY CLASSIFICATION SECRET 25X1A SECURITY INFORMATION INFORMATION REPORT REPORT NO. CD NO. DATE DISTR. 21 January 1952 COUNTRY China NO. OF PAGES 2 SUBJECT Pay Scale and Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 25X1C NO. OF ENCLS. DATE OF INFO. SUPPLEMENT TO PLACE 25X1XREPORT NO. ACQUIRED Pay Scale for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 25X1 In June 1952, the regular pay for personnel of the Chinese Communist Army was as follows: JMP 1,760,000 Field army commander Field army deputy commander JMP 1,440,000 JMP 1,280,000 Field army staff officer..... Army group commander..... JMP 800,000 Army group deputy commander..... JMP 720,000 640,000 Army group staff officer..... JMP 520,000 Army commander 440,000 Army deputy commander..... JMP JMP 360,000 Division commander..... Division deputy commander JMP 280,000 In July the regular pay for personnel of regimental commander rank and lower was as follows: 250,000 Regiment commander..... 200,000 Battalion commander..... Company commander..... 160,000 110,000 JMP Platoon commander..... 79,000 JMP Section leader 57,000 CLASSIFICATION SECRETA 25X1 COMNAVS: FE#PHIL#7#PACFTTS#: CINCFE# NSRB DISTRIBUTION . STATE ŇAVY FEAF#5AF#HYCOM# #MAAG# 25X1 X FBI Ev х

Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 4. As of 17 September each soldier in the Chinese Communist Army was issued the following articles for a year ² : Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new ones every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMP. 25) 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier.			Approved For Release 2002/08/14 : 215XRDP82-00457R016100340003-7 25X1A
3. In addition to the regular pay, each officer and enlisted man of the Chinese Communist Army in Korea received a JMP 5,000 monthly combat allowance. 25X1C Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 4. As of 17 September each soldigr in the Chinese Communist Army was issued the following articles for a year?: Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new one every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries. Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMF. XIA 1. Comment. Compare			SECRET
3. In addition to the regular pay, each officer and enlisted man of the Chinese Communist Army in Korea received a JMP 5,000 monthly combat allowance. 25X1C Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 4. As of 17 September each soldigr in the Chinese Communist Army was issued the following articles for a year?: Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new one every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries. Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMF. XIA 1. Comment. Compare
Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 4. As of 17 September each soldier in the Chinese Communist Army was issued the following articles for a year ² : Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new ones every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMF. X1A 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army retions. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.			-2-
Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel 4. As of 17 September each soldier in the Chinese Communist Army was issued the following articles for a year ² : Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new ones every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMF. X1A 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army retions. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.
4. As of 17 September each soldigr in the Chinese Communist Army was issued the following articles for a year ² : Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new ones every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries Pey and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMP. 255 X1A 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.	X1C	3.	Communist Army in Korea received a JMP 5,000 monthly compat allowance. 25X1C
following articles for a year': Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new ones every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military granaries Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMP. 25) X1A 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.			Supplies for Chinese Communist Army Personnel
X1C granaries Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment according to the purchasing power of the JMP. 25) X1A 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this hethod for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.	:	4.	following articles for a year ² : Eight pairs of cloth, rubber, or leather shoes; two unlined uniforms; one cotton uniform; one pair of underwear; four towels; and three pairs of socks. Cotton quilts were exchanged for new ones every three years. Army rations were drawn from the granary of the local government where the unit was stationed because there were no provisions depots or military
X1A 1. Comment. Compare reported a pay scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.	X1C		granaries Pay and food allowances were subject to monthly adjustment scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that time as a "low pay system" instituted because of widespread corruption. X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.			25X
X1A 2. Comment. Possibly a more reasonable interpretation would be that this represents the yearly uniform allowance for each soldier. X1A 3. Comment. This office has received no previous reports of this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.	δX1A		scale in force in May 1952 which was somewhat lower than the scale given in this report. The lower scale was characterized by the defector at that this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.	X1A
this method for drawing army rations. On the other hand, reports from several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, presumably military in character.	X1A
			several agencies have mentioned rice storage dumps and grain warehouses, ٠
			•

SECRET/

25X1